National History Day® encourages students in grades 6-12 to explore local, state, national, and world history. After selecting a historical topic that relates to an annual theme, students conduct extensive research by using libraries, archives, museums, and oral history interviews. They analyze and interpret their findings, draw conclusions about their topics' significance in history, and create final projects that present their work. These projects can be entered into a series of competitions, from the local to the national level, where they are evaluated by professional historians and educators.

Join Fort Ticonderoga for one of these free online workshops to learn how to get your students involved in this national program. To register, email Rich Strum at Fort Ticonderoga at rstrum@fort-ticonderoga.org. Include your name, along with the grade level and school where you teach.

These workshops are supported by a grant from the Champlain Valley National Heritage Partnership.
